REX AND THE HEX

For millions of years dinosaurs had cruised the prehistoric party-lands, doing cool dinosaur-like things in perfect harmony. Primordial life was totally kick-back — skateboardin', groovin', chowing down at all-you-can eat salad bars and just hangin' out. Living in the dino-world was as awesome as a high-speed board-jump through the freshest half-pipe! Way cool.

But then one day... out of nowhere — like a sideways board-slide... came the MAMMALS!

At first it seemed that these mammal-types were just little furry nuisances that occasionally had to be wiped from under your feet. No sweat — skateboardin' did get a little bumpier, but there was no major change in the lifestyles of the hip and happenin'. So the dinos partied on...

Until the day Skriitch showed up. Skriitch, a funky-lookin' mammal with magical powers, busted out of the frozen wastes to carry out his master plan: to reduce all dinos to ZIP so that mammals could rule the earth! Not exactly a cool deal for the righteous reptilian race.

Skriitch jetted through the once kickin' lands using his sorcery to zap the doomed dinos with his horrible hex. With a wave of his hypnotic wizard staff, Skriitch placed most of the dinosaurs in the land under his nightmarish command. Brutal!... If Skriitch continues spreading his evil magic throughout the rest of the dino-lands, the prehistoric world will be hating life!

With dinosaurs doing Skriitch's dirty work, the land before time was almost out of time — but one young dino-dude was too hip to fall under the sway of Skriitch's magic. Radical Rex, the raddest, baddest dinosaur on prehistoric pavement, keenly out-smarted the evil wizard's mortal curse.

So now Rex must take on the grim guru before he gets to the rest of his dinosaur buds... and most importantly, to his dino-darling Rexanne! Will the Mesozoic bad boy be able to "ex" that hex — or lose his main squeeze and the entire dinosaur race to the sinister sorcerer Skriitch? Radical Rex – the dinosaur world's last hope for restoring prehistoric partying.

STOP SKRIITCH'S HEX!

Whether the result of a calculated dino-move or just plain luck, it's up to Rex to defeat the power-hungry Skriitch – and to save Rexanne and the dinosaur race from extinction. You must help Rex thrash through dangerous prehistoric worlds to defeat the evil Skriitch – before it's too late!

MAKIN' TRACKS ON DINO TURF

Walking/Riding

Rex struts his stuff on or off his board. Sometimes he'll find that his Tyrannosaurus tootsies supply him with the best form of transportation, while other times his board will give him the speed he needs to get him where he wants to go. But remember, Rex rides a skateboard, not a 4-wheeler, so if you try to skate where no board has gone before, you'll find yourself going on a very short ride.

Breathing Fire

Rex's roastin' ability can petrify the nastiest prehistoric monsters to a blackened crisp, but think fast— those bad boys can snap out of it and put Rex in the hot-seat before you know it. Watch the Fire-Tracker to see how much firepower Rex has picked up. The more Fire Fossils Rex picks up, the mightier the flame-breath he sports.

Kicking

The Rexmaster can kick up a storm— a dust storm, that is. Once Rex has fried one of his enemies, all it takes is one swift kick to turn that crispy critter into a puff of dust. See ya! What's up next for the karate-king of barbecue?

Climbing and Swinging on Vines

Jump on a vine and Rex will be quick to hold on for his dino-life. Then, use the D-Pad to climb up or down the vine. Or, if climbing doesn't seem like the hip thing to do— do what swinging singles do... First, use the D-Pad (left and right) to gain some momentum, then jump off.

Swimming

Rex can only do the dino-paddle for as long as he can hold his breath. To get more air, there are three things Rex can do: 1) swim up for air, 2) grab an AIR BUBBLE FOSSIL, or 3) go suck a fish! The third option may not be common behavior for a cool dino like Rex, but the generosity of some fish makes it worth it. (Rex's Oxygen Gauge at the top of the screen will let you know how much swimming time Rex has left.)

Blowing Bubbles

When Rex is underwater, his fire-breathing capability turns into a different form of defense— bubble-blowing. (Well, what did you think would happen if you breathed fire under water?) Although this capability is not lethal, it will undoubtedly push aquatic enemies away to give Rex the swimming space he needs for a clean get-away.

Jumping

Rex can bust out with the coolest, raddest jumps on or off his board. Rex jumps higher than you would expect most dino-dudes to jump and can get even higher with a little help from his friends... Try combining his talents to show-off moves like the karate jump-kick. Excellent!

Roaring

A dinosaur isn't born with a powerful roar, it comes with experience. The farther Rex advances in his mission, the more opportunities he will have to improve his roaring power. Once Rex has the stuff that real dinos are made of, he can use his mighty mouth to blow away those Mesozoic meanies.

Trashing/Firing Skateboard

The Rexmaster may find himself in situations that call for some slick board maneuvers. He may need to ride his board to get to a certain point, then jump off in mid-air to land on his feet. Rex may find that trashing his board is the quickest way to solid ground. But Rex can also use his board to defend himself. So dinos, stand back— Rex may be armed and dangerous! (Note: If Rex chooses to trash or fire his board, it's trashed for good and he's gotta find a new one before he can hit the slopes again.)

REX TRACKS

Rex will have to jam through five different dino-worlds to rescue Rexanne and save his dino-buds from extinction! No sweat for the Rexster... But just when Rex thought it was safe to go back into the jungle — Rex has to make it back through all five worlds AGAIN!

STRATEGY HINTS

- Look for useful objects when searching for higher ground — they're sure to put a spring in Rex's step.
- If Rex's board supplies a quick lift but gets in the way of a footed landing, trashing it may be the only way to solid ground.
- Don't be so quick to dust off a char-broiled enemy, Rex may need a stepping stone to get where he wants to go.
- If the Leapsnake's got Rex down... his throat... start up the fireworks!
- You've gotta be light on your toes to light up a Tiki Torch...
- Give a new meaning to "board-thrashing" — take aim before you trash your board!
- Show the Dino-Graveyard Boss your fancy foot-work — up-side his head... then burn away the fleshy bones to finish him off!
- Here's the low-down on dodging the pesky Pterodactyl in Skriitch's Forest the second time around — find the lowest point and DUCK!
